Baptist Leader Urges Rich To Distribute Their Wealth While They Are Still Living

Lane's Opera House in Newport was filled to capacity Wednesday for the closing session of the ninety-sixth annual meeting of the Vermont Baptist State convention, which has been in session here since Monday.

Rev. W. A. Davison, secretary-superintendent of the convention, in his closing remarks declared it was one of the greatest meetings the Baptist had ever held in the state. Rev. E. M. Poteat of New York made an earnest appeal to the rich to distribute their wealth while still living.

The services on Wednesday were opened in the Baptist Church at 9:20 a. m. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. J. L. Clark of Bellows Falls, after which Rev. J. Allen Spidell of Burlington, evangelist for the State Convention gave a brief address on his work.

President Henry Bond, presiding, called for a report of the committee on nominations, of which J. D. Thynge of Passumpsic is chairman. His report was accepted and upon a vote of the convention the clerk, Rev. F. S. Tolman, was ordered to cast a ballot for the list of officers presented, after which the following were elected as officers of the Convention for the ensuing year:

President, Elmer B. Bailey of Burlington; first vice president, Wallace W. Nichols of Rutland; second vice president, Miss Grace M. Brooks of Georgia Plains; clerk, Frank S. Tolman, Ph. D. of Randolph. Members of the Board of Trustees, term expiring in 1922: Miss Ada A. Brigham of Bennington; Rev. W. A. Davison of Burlington; Leon S. Gay of Cavendish; Howard Crane of Burlington; F. PRISONERS FLEE FROM JAIL AT NEWPORT

Two Navy Deserters, Smugler and Vagrant Saw Bars to Freedom

At about 11 o'clock on Monday night, four prisoners escaped from the Orleans county jail at Newport and fled into other parts of the county. The prisoners were all young men, and effected their escape by sawing through the bars in the east window of the jail by means of a steel knife, it is thought. The four men were Clyde Johnson, a deserter from the Brooklyn Navy Yard; Henry Neault, a deserter from Hampton Roads, Va.; Wilbur Clarke, a vagrant of Lowell, Mass.; and Walter Duke, a smuggler from Berlin, N. H. It is thought that the escape was instigated by Clarke. One of the prisoners, Neault, was captured at Lyndonville by deputy sheriff Stafford. The man escaped but was retaken at Littleton, N. H.

While it is believed that the escape was made before mid-night on Monday, it was not discovered until Tuesday morning when the warden went to feed the prisoners. Sheriff E. J. Hill was at once notified, and word was sent immediately to the surrounding towns resulting in the one capture, but so far as is known, none of the other three have yet been apprehended. Neault was brought to St. Johnsbury from Littleton Wednesday morning and lodged in the Caledonia jail, but in the afternoon he was taken back to Newport.

SINGING AND TALKING IN THE RAIN

Chautauqua Speakers Carry On During the Big Storm Overhead

THURSDAY NIGHT
8:00 p. m. Musical Prelude by the Beacon Concert Company.
8:45 p. m. Lecture, "Americanism, the Goal of History," FRIDAY
2:30 p. m. Toyshop Pageant by the Junior Chautauqua.
3:00 p. m. Lecture, "Keeping in Trim," by Louise L. McIntyre.
8:00 p. m. "Polly of the Circus," by the Metropolitan Players.

The Community Chautauqua artists are good scouts and their performance Wednesday evening was carried out according to schedule in the midst of one of the heaviest down pours of the season. The big tent kept the people dry and the rain slid off its top and sides like water on a duck's back. The only change in the program was the substitution of Harold Feber of the English Navy League in place of Percy Allen. The latter's slides had not arrived in this country and Mr. Feber took his place.

The musical part of the program by the three Italians styled the Venetian Serenaders greatly pleased the large audience. They had a lot of pep in their vocal selections and Mr. Cairo's accordion numbers elicited much applause. The artists were very generous in their encores and the numerous changes of position on the stage, necessitated by the rain, amused the younger ones in the audience. The Italian melodies were given with much feeling and expression. Mr. Feber is an Englishman who as a representative of the Navy League did much investigating for his government both before and during the war. He was in Berlin when war was declared and had been warned out of Heligoland because the Germans suspected he was getting information about that heavily-fortified island. He said he had chosen as his subject "The Secrets of the Sea," and while he was not allowed to tell them all there were some things he could talk about now that the great war was over.

Mr. Feber then showed an interesting collection of sea scenes, including battleships, submarines, dirigibles, destroyers and Atlantic liners. As the views were thrown on the screen Mr. Feber described the subjects, incidentally paying high tributes to the various branches of the naval service from the stoker up to the Admiral. The speaker showed how the British navy played an important part in winning the war, backed up by the other ships of the Allies, and how the German fleet, one of the most powerful in the world, was kept away from the English coast and kept bottled up on the German coast.

Johnson, Negro Committeeman, Says They Dissappear After Voting In Georgia

(By the Associated Press)

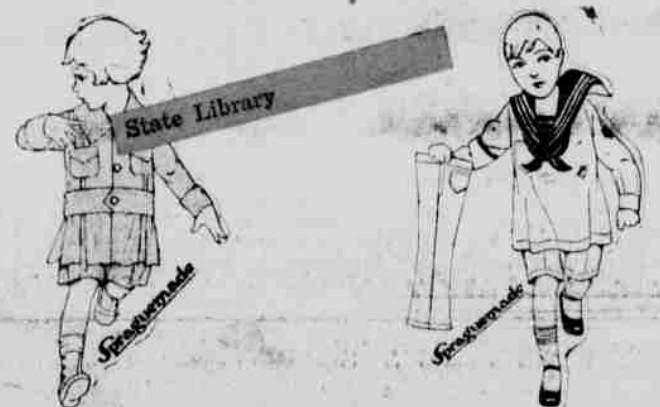

CHICAGO, July 8.—Negroes who have voted the Republican ticket in Georgia have disappeared and never have been heard of again, Henry Lincoln Johnson, negro Republican National committeeman told the Senate committee investigating campaign expenditures today. The committee was questioning Johnson about lynchings in the South.

"They don't lynch men for belonging to the Republican party, do they?" asked Senator Kenyon. "Oh yes they do," Johnson replied. "Many a negro voting the Republican ticket has disappeared and no word has ever been heard of him." The senate committee will move to St. Louis tonight to take up the investigation of A. M. Mitchell Palmer's campaign for the Democratic nomination. Chairman Kenyon announced when hearings were resumed today. The principal witness in the Palmer investigation will be Edward Goltz, Democratic National committeeman from Missouri and Joseph T. Davis, an attorney of St. Louis. A report that Goltz paid the expenses of 28 delegates to the state convention which ousted Senator Reed from his national convention seat, will be one of the matters investigated. Senator Reed is a member of the investigating committee. The committee today turned its attention to the $9,000 payment said to have been made by Lowden campaign forces to Henry Lincoln Johnson, Georgia national committeeman. Johnson was the center of a bitter committee of the Republican National convention. While testifying before the committee he admitted receiving the money for campaign expenses.
